1974 TOBACCO REPORT

SOUTH CAROLINA
DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

WILLIAM L. HARRELSON
Commissioner

Prices, Costs High in '74

Tobacco time 1974 in South Carolina looked like a gaily decorated Christmas package. The outward appearance, however, was deceiving. To the man-in-the-street who read and heard of record prices received by growers, his impression was far different from the tobacco grower who was on the receiving end of the record $104.02 per hundred pounds price for South Carolina producers.

This amount was an excellent jump from the $86.61 per hundred one-year record earned by growers in 1973. All of these new increases, however, were eaten up by higher production expenses.

"Production costs far outdistanced any additional receipts received by South Carolina growers," explained Commissioner of Agriculture William L. Harrelson, citing data on flue-cured tobacco production furnished by Clemson agricultural economic experts.

"Their figures," he continued, "report an approximate 20 percent price increase received by farmers. But, production costs jumped around 40 percent which still left farmers deeply in the hole."

Commissioner Harrelson observed growers were better off with their 1973 prices and lower production outlays than with their 1974 record prices and correspondingly higher production totals.

Important production and cultural items like fertilizer, nitrogen, herbicides, fungicides, insecticides and tobacco twine led the way upward. "There were other things," noted Commissioner Harrelson, "like fuel for curing, crop insurance and hired labor which also skyrocketed. We didn't have much to talk about after all of these items were deducted. And to top it all off, most farmers had to operate on a pay-as-you-go policy during 1974. In the past, they were able to buy at planting time and pay off after they harvested and sold in late summer and fall. The policy in 1974 was to pay on delivery or within 30 days. Farmers who were not able to pay cash at this time were forced to borrow at high interest rates."

Earliest Opening Day Ever

The July 15, 1974, opening day was the earliest on record for the 11-market, 37-warehouse South Carolina flue cured sales. Final sales occurred at Lake City, Oct. 24. Because of a new designated market plan instituted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, sales were not held on each of the 11 markets every day. A total of 58 sales days were registered during the selling period compared to 53 in 1973.

This lengthy selling season was a sore spot with South Carolina growers.

Harvesting of the 1974 crop was completed in late August or early September, yet many growers were forced to wait until the closing week before finishing sales. This delay forced a storage of six to eight weeks for farmers.

"They found out that tobacco did not store too well on the farm," said Commissioner Harrelson. "Farmers did not have facilities to store the crop and control of insects in the cured crop further increased their production expenses."

Sluggish Prices Marked Initial Sales

Opening day averages for July 15 on the Border Belt (South Carolina-North Carolina) markets were only $81.78 per hundred, according to the Federal-State Market News Service. This mark compared with the record high at the time of $83.15 per hundred for July 24, 1973.

Stabilization Corporation received 23 percent of gross opening day sales against just four-tenths of a percent in 1973.

Growers and tobacco officials got their dander up over opening day prices despite a prediction by Commissioner Harrelson that prices would improve when better quality leaf hit the market.

Disappointment was widespread among growers, many of whom threatened to hold back their crops until the market improved.

Second day sales climbed to $82.02 per hundred with Stabilization getting 24.6 percent. Third day sales slumped to $81.16 per hundred.

The first weekly report for four sales days for the 11 markets and 37 warehouses to the South Carolina Department of Agriculture showed producer sales of 13,190,056 pounds for $10,626,192.55 with an average of $80.56 per hundred. South Carolina producers sold 12,629,730 pounds of the amount for $10,172,634.06 for an average per hundred of $80.55.

Things picked up as the market entered its second week of sales on July 22, with the average hitting $84.95. It climbed to $85.20 for July 23 and to $86.39 the following day as quality of offerings improved steadily.

Second week reports to the South Carolina Department of Agriculture by the state's 37 warehouses included 12,492,686 producer pounds sold for $10,694,432.67 with an average of $85.61 per hundred. South Carolina producers sold 12,002,048 pounds for $10,291,454.71 with an average per hundred of $85.71.

Sales for July 29 signaled a new day for South Carolina tobacco as the all-time Border Belt high average of $92.58 was established, surpassing the previous record of $91.57 of Sept. 17, 1973. South Carolina markets averaged $92.92 per hundred for the day.

This record lasted just one day as the July 30 total hit $93.40 per hundred. The upward spiral continued the following day with a $95.04 per hundred mark chalked up and South Carolina markets attaining a $95.35 average for the day.

Third week sales on South Carolina markets reached history making averages with the warehouses reporting 13,332,533 producer pounds sold for $12,627,227.89, according to the South Carolina Department of Agriculture. The average was $94.71 with South Carolina producers selling 12,789,606 pounds for $12,130,042.62 for an average of $94.84.

Temperatures began to pick up as the days of August began and so did prices on Palmetto State markets. The date of Aug. 5 was an historic one in the State with all markets averaging one dollar or more per hundred pounds for a whopping $101.78 total.

For the first time in 1974, sales reached the dollar average deemed necessary by Commissioner Harrelson for growers to show any sort of profit.

One dollar averages were maintained throughout the week as the fourth weekly report to the South Carolina Department of Agriculture zoomed to 12,572,268 producer pounds for $12,872,510.17 for an average of $102.38 per hundred. South Carolina producers sold 11,949,046 pounds for $12,259,802.23 for an average per hundred of $102.60.

Dollars Outnumbered Pounds for Growers

It was a new experience for South Carolina growers, carrying home more dollars than they had carried pounds of tobacco to market.

Market offerings included larger percentages of fair and good grades of leaf and cutters and a sharp drop in lugs, primings and nondescript tobacco from the lower stalks.

Good pocketbook news continued into the fifth week as the Aug. 12 average hit a new peak of $106.52 per hundred on the belt. The Aug. 13 sales were even higher at $106.68 per hundred and for Aug. 14, still another record at $107.04.

Warehouse sales figures filed with the South Carolina Department of Agriculture for the fifth week of the season included 12,207,350 producer pounds for $13,119,844.23 with a $107.48 average. South Carolina producers gained 11,697,351 pounds of this total for $12,580,749.12 for an average per hundred of $107.55.

Average Kept Jumping Upward

Average prices knew no stopping point as they hit $108.14 for sales of Aug. 19, 1974. The mark the following day increased to $108.89.

For the sixth weekly report to the South Carolina Department of Agriculture, the producer sales were 11,689,981 pounds for $12,721,258.38 with an average per hundred of $108.82. South Carolina producers got $12,219,567.09 for their 11,221,538 pounds with an average per hundred of $108.89.

The average of Aug. 26, 1974, established a new high of $109.73 per hundred and dipped just 11 cents the next day. The daily average continued its record surge through the week.

Week No. 7 showed a grand total of 11,102,451 producer pounds reported to the South Carolina Department of Agriculture for cash receipts of $12,200,719.03 with an average per hundred of $109.89. South Carolina producers sold 10,554,981 pounds for $11,606,254.11 with an average per hundred of $109.96.

A Labor Day holiday was observed Sept. 2, 1974, but sales resumed Sept. 3 with a sparkling $110.20 average for still another new daily high. The Sept. 4 average was even one cent better.

No Letup Noted in September

September sales showed no signs of a let up as the eighth weekly report to the South Carolina Department of Agriculture had producer sales of 8,120,023 pounds for $8,952,212.37 with an average per hundred of $110.25. South Carolina producers had 7,676,617 pounds of the amount for $8,470,073.75 for an average per hundred of $110.34. Only three sales days were held during the week.

The Sept. 9 average for the belt was $110.92, another of this new daily records. High prices continued through the week to lift the ninth weekly report to the South Carolina Department of Agriculture to a $110.50 average with 10,761,176 producer pounds selling for $11,890,711.86.

Season's Mark Hits Dollar Per Pound

This surge, for the first time, lifted the season's average to $100.22 with a grand total of 105,468,524 producer pounds selling for $105,705,109.15.

Tenth week sales reported to the South Carolina Department of Agriculture tabbed a $109.99 average per hundred on 10,692,401 producer pounds sold for $11,760,459.48. The seasonal average climbed to $101.12 per hundred.

During the 11th week of sales, some of the better grades of leaf brought company prices of $120 per hundred.

Many South Carolina farmers still had plenty of their 1974 crop to sell during the month of September and appeals for additional sales time were rejected by the Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Committee meeting at Raleigh, N. C.

Eleventh week sales figures turned in to the South Carolina Department of Agriculture boasted producer sales of 10,782,695 pounds for $11,878,448.19 with an average per hundred of $110.16, lifting the seasonal average to $101.89.

Spurred by the strongest demand of the season, the average for Sept. 30, reached a new peak of $110.96 on the belt. This lasted until Oct. 1 when an average of $112.59 was chalked up.

Another All-Time High Reached

The weekly average for the belt hit another all-time high for the 12th week with a $112.06 per hundred average.

Reports for the 12th week, filed with the South Carolina Department of Agriculture, listed producer sales of 12,143,009 pounds for $13,614,448.81 for an average per hundred of $112.12. South Carolina producers claimed sales of 11,618,648 pounds for $13,036,162.70 with an average per hundred of $112.20.

Sales for the 13th week opened on a non-superstitious note with a new record average of $112.92 per hundred recorded on Oct. 7. Some top grades brought $120-$125 per hundred from companies.

Warehouse reports to the South Carolina Department of Agriculture for the 13th week included producer sales of 11,933,561 pounds for $13,372,232.02 with an average per hundred of $112.06. South Carolina producers sold 11,550,793 pounds of the total for $12,943,307.01 and an identical $112.06 average.

Tally for the 14th week of sales showed 8,674,676 producer pounds sold for $9,485,377.45 with an average per hundred of $109.35. There were only three sales days for the week, accounting for the lowest level in nearly two months.

With sales heading into the final week starting Oct. 21, markets at Conway, Dillon and Hemingway closed that date. Additional closings at Darlington, Kingstree, Lamar, Loris, Mullins, Pamplico and Timmonsville were held Oct. 22. Lake City held final sales for South Carolina markets in 1974 on Oct. 24.

Sales for the 15th and final week with 29 warehouses operating on 11 markets posted an average of $108.23 per hundred for 4,633,396 producer pounds for receipts of $5,014,763.51.

Final Tally Made Record

The grand total for South Carolina markets reached 164,326,140 producer pounds for $170,828,416.67 and an average per hundred of $103.96.

South Carolina producers grabbed 157,335,000 pounds of this amount for $163,664,670.50 and an average per hundred of $104.02.

New seasonal records for cash receipts and average per hundred were established.

The Federal-State Market News Service stated of quality of offerings that "an improvement was registered over 1973 due principally to an increase in the percentage of fair and good leaf. Less primings, low and fair lugs and low cutters were in the crop."

Stabilization Corporation receipts amounted to 2.6 percent of gross sales compared to just 0.7 percent for the 1973 crop.

Weighing Practices 'Best Ever'

Uniformity in all weighing practices on the 1974 South Carolina tobacco market was "the best ever," according to Consumer Protection Division personnel of the South Carolina Department of Agriculture.

These specialists were active on warehouse floors in all 11 state markets throughout the buying season. "With tobacco bringing record prices during the season," said Commissioner Harrelson, "our work in this area was more extensive than ever. Each warehouse was visited prior to the opening day to check scales, obtain uniform weights of hand trucks and sheets and to post this information for the benefit of growers. They came back during the season for periodic checks on the scales, trucks and tobacco piles."

Under the Public Weighmaster Law, each tobacco warehouse is required to have a licensed public weightmaster and any deputy weighmasters as needed to issue a statement as to the accurate weight of the commodity. This weighing is done to the nearest even pound.

If consumer protection specialists observe any bad weighing practices, warning letters are issued. If further violations occur, licenses may be suspended for those under warning.

Tobacco Is Revenue Source

Tobacco, grown in 18 of South Carolina's 46 counties, not only provides a healthy boost to the State's agricultural economy, but the crop is a big source of state and federal tax revenue.

The South Carolina Tax Commission reported that during fiscal year 1973-74 tobacco products sold within the state amounted to a net of some 21.6 million dollars in tax revenue. Millions of dollars are received by the Federal Government from the same source in South Carolina sales. The State of South Carolina taxes cigarettes at the rate of six cents per pack while the Federal tax is eight cents per pack.

National tax revenue from tobacco for federal, state and local government units amounts to over five billion dollars annually, according to the Tobacco Tax Council, Inc.

Crop Role Was Important to New World

History bears out the vital role played in the establishment of the New World. John Rolfe, whose romance and marriage with Pocahontas in 1614 brought him popular fame, was credited with planting the first tobacco seed in America. These seed were brought in from the Spanish colonies of Trinidad and Caracas. His first crop was cured at Jamestown, Virginia, in 1612 and a shipment of several hundred pounds sent to England to compare with the Spanish leaf used at the time by London smokers.

Bolstered by a favorable reaction, a new export trade was set up for the colonies and by the end of the colonial period, the tobacco colonies of Virginia, Maryland and the Carolinas were exporting some 100 million pounds of the leaf annually.

This export trade was partially responsible for the fresh hope which began to flourish in America at that time, making possible the creation of a vast, new English-speaking country.

South Carolina's tobacco growing industry received a big boost when the first tobacco market was established in 1890 after Florence County farmer Frank M. Rogers had persuaded manufacturers from Durham, North Carolina, to set up a market at Florence.

Slowly and gradually, tobacco began to climb towards the top of the agricultural economy in the State. Producers in 1909 sold just over 31 million pounds of tobacco for 2.3 million dollars on South Carolina markets. In 1917, a big growth spurt was noted when 51 million pounds brought 11.7 million dollars. From this point, with few exceptions, tobacco production became a multi-million dollar farming industry in the State. Following World War II South Carolina growers were producing more than 100 million pounds of tobacco annually resulting in incomes of more than 50 million dollars. The biggest sales year in history for South Carolina growers was in 1962 when over 166 million pounds was marketed. The biggest financial harvest was in the recently completed 1974 season when producer sales amounted to over 170.8 million dollars. The 1974 average of $103.96 per 100 pounds is the highest mark on record.

Tobacco grown in South Carolina is a Bright variety used primarily in cigarettes. It is cured by heated air within the tobacco barns which account for the name "flue cured." This tobacco is a resultant variety from Rolfe's experimental plants. Bulk curing of the crop is coming into popularity which is a system whereby the leaf is hung in bales while warm air is forced into the barn through vents.

Labor Needs Great for Tobacco

Tobacco remains one of the high labor requirement crops for South Carolina farmers with some 300-400 hours needed to produce an acre of the crop from the preparation of seed beds to harvest and on to market. This output takes almost a full 12 months at the farm level.

Automation, under the direction in South Carolina of Clemson University engineers and scientists, has made great strides in recent years. The work of these experts is going a long way towards helping small South Carolina growers to overcome a shortage of labor needed to grow top quality tobacco.

The history of tobacco production in South Carolina is that of a small farmer operation and these developments are being done to keep him in business.

Year-round tobacco growing follows the pattern of the markets closing in late September or by mid-October and even until late October as in 1974. In the following weeks, growers are reminded to select a site for their plant beds and get the site ready. After the bed site is selected, early fumigation is needed to aid in the production of superior plants. Seed, which grow into plants as tall as five and six feet, are so small at the beginning that about 443,000 of them make up an ounce.

Changing market conditions and appearances of diseases have resulted in demands for new and improved tobacco varieties. The most popular varieties are the newer ones which carry some tolerance to most of the common soil-borne diseases which strike the plants. Clemson University publishes an annual list of recommended varieties which growers follow usually.

Predominant soil series for tobacco growing in South Carolina are Norfolk, Varina, Marlboro, Goldsboro, Dunbar, Lynchburg and several minor types. Crop rotation and soil treatment are important in production. Rotation helps get the most from the soil and controls certain diseases. However, the limited amount of suitable tobacco-producing soil makes the rotation program hard to maintain on many farms.

After the tiny seeds have grown into plants several inches tall in the plant bed, they are transplanted into fields either by hand or by machine. The spacing of the tobacco plants in the row of the field determines the yield and quality of tobacco produced. Close spacing reduces size and thickness of the leaf and often results in thin-textured chaffy leaves on the bottom area of the stalk. Growers, however, sometimes use this close spacing to increase per acre yields. Often this backfires because it results in more expense and a lower net price per pound. Wider spacing increases the size of the individual plant and produces leaves which are longer, wider and thicker.

In a normal growing season eight or nine weeks after transplanting, tobacco comes into "top." The seed head begins to form at this time and begins to "button out." Flowers start forming about a week later in what is known as the early bloom stage. Tobacco growers are ready to "top" or "sucker" at this time. Generally, the tobacco plant is topped out at the ball sucker or one to two leaves below, depending on the prevailing moisture conditions, fertilizer applied and the height of the plant at topping.

This topping is essential to the production of a high quality tobacco. It promotes leaf development, growth of suckers and stimulates root growth.

Farmer Skills Tested

Harvesting and curing are two facets of tobacco production which test the skill of the farmer. It is possible to improve the quality of the crop if proper attention is given to these two techniques. The crop is ready to prime as soon as the leaves begin to yellow and are primed before burning begins. As the leaves are primed, they are either strung on sticks or bulk racked for placing in the curing barn. A tobacco leaf contains about 80 percent moisture as it goes into the curing barn. The removal of this excess moisture is the prime reason for the curing process, but the main value of it comes from the chemical changes that take place during the process. A successful curing requires that the excess moisture be removed under conditions that will allow the proper chemical changes to take place.

Curing preserves the quality, flavor and aroma that are produced in the tobacco plant in the field. Curing tobacco is a process of controlling temperature, humidity and air flow.

As tobacco growers harvest the green leaves in the field, they try to keep them uniform and ripe. These leaves then cure together and result in uniform grades which requires little or no sorting after being removed from the curing barn. Farmers who do not grade when harvesting have to sort the leaves after taking them off the curing barn sticks.

Tobacco is marketed as soon as possible after it is removed from the curing barn. South Carolina tobacco has been sold loose leaf since 1967 when the State was granted a total of 95 hours of loose leaf selling time at the beginning of the marketing period. Since 1968, the entire sales period has been loose leaf with full price support. Tobacco also is sold on burlap sheets 96 inches by 96 inches to provide a more orderly system of marketing.

What Does '75 Hold For Crop?

What does 1975 hold in store for South Carolina tobacco and the growers who produce the crop?

"It appears," viewed Commissioner Harrelson, "that this might be the last year for the price support and quota system for the flue cured tobacco crop. If this is the case, the effect will be felt by the economy of the entire Southeast. Tobacco companies, if support and the quotas are dropped, instead of getting more tobacco will get less leaf. Farmers cannot afford to grow tobacco under those conditions. They need to be assured of a fair return on their investment and many will not be able to afford to borrow money to help them through the growing season."
